Remember that surveys may not always be available, and earnings are usually modest.

Rewards websites allow members to earn points by completing different online activities. These activities may include surveys, shopping offers, quizzes, and promotional tasks.

After collecting enough points, users may be able to exchange them for an Amazon gift card.

3. Participate in Cashback Programs

Cashback programs reward customers for eligible purchases made through participating stores or shopping platforms.

Some cashback services provide gift card redemption options. This means you may be able to collect rewards from purchases you were already planning to make.
